1. [] informed this office that they conducted a thorough interrogation of RNBRANDY and that he held to his original story at all times. [] added that RNBRANDY is a "tough nut to crack" and for the time being ordered his return to Makronisis.

2. According to [], their surveillance of Mehmet and Feta Kuci did not uncover anything of significance and he has initiated a complete interrogation of both men. For reasons not made known to the writer, one of the brothers will be sent to Syros.

3. It is the writer's opinion that the Greek authorities will not conduct an intensive investigation of these cases, especially if progress is slow. Unless the Greek authorities believe they have much to gain by these investigations, they might decide that confinement is the easier alternative.

4. Weller informed the writer that he overheard a conversation of Greek officers who were concerned with Subjects; they were complaining that they were handicapped personnel-wise and could not handle the case properly. The writer will discuss this situation further with Weller in an effort to develop a closer working relationship with KYP on CE activity.
